EDDIE CANTOR

In Samuel Goldwyn's lavish musical, "Palmy Days," Eddie Cantor plays an unwilling assistant to a gang of phony fortune-tellers who plan to rob one of their gullible clients, a millionaire bakery owner.

"Palmy Days," also starring George Raft, can be seen on Mississippi ETV's afternoon movie at 1, Thursday, June 3, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Accidentally, Cantor is mistaken for an efficiency expert, given the run of the huge bakery, and, despite his incompetence, the profits soar. The crooks suspect a double-cross by Cantor, and the chase is on.

CARD OF THANKS

Recently my husband was rushed to Hancock General Hospital with internal bleeding. The Emergency Unit can not be praised enough for their quick, accurate decisions; neither can enough be said for the efficiency of the Intensive Care Unit.

My husband and I feel that the best way to show our appreciation for the care and attention he received is to let our community know how we feel.

The nursing staff as well as all aides and others were efficient and reassuring. Their kindness will never be forgotten by either one of us.

We have only one complaint to express and it is that our community needs larger facilities for the entire hospital staff. I do hope that any plans for an increase in the size of our hospital will be met with enthusiasm by our community. We need it, they need it.

Thank you very much for including our friends. God Bless You.

And for both children and adults, the ever-popular "Doctor Who" will continue to shuttle through space and time sorting out intergalactic problems at 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

"We are really excited over our summer reading plans in the public libraries this summer," said Becky Pearce, consultant for special programs at the Mississippi Library Commission.

"Summer Video" will add an extra dimension to our services for children. We are experiencing an overwhelming response to the "Summer Video Fun Book."

Said Savan Tynes, director of education at Mississippi ETV, "This is a unique opportunity for state agencies to work together to provide summer learning opportunities for the children of Mississippi. This is the first year that 'Summer Video Fun Books' have been provided, and we feel children will benefit from this added service."

LINCOLN CENTER

Zubin Mehta conducts the combined philharmonic orchestras of New York and Israel on "Live from Lincoln Center" at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, June 3, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

The live concert is a benefit performance for the endowment funds of both symphonies. It will originate from Avery Fisher Hall at Lincoln Center.

This will be the first joint concert to include the New York Philharmonic since May 1944 when it was joined by the NBC Symphony, under the baton of Arturo Toscanini, in Madison Square Garden.

Correction

Mrs. Dianne Watkins, owner of Jerry's Restaurant in Pearlinton, reports certain inaccuracies were included in a police report published in The Sea Coast Echo of a recent shooting incident in that city.

She said a shotgun allegedly taken from a truck in front of her business was actually taken from a truck parked several streets over from the business location.

The subject arrested in the incident, Jeff Wayne Carver, 22, also of Pearlinton, allegedly fired a shotgun over Watkins' head in her front yard on Dawson Road, according to Watkins, not as Carver was being chased as earlier reported.

Mrs. Watkins said her husband chased Carver toward Carver's home on Whites Road, and that Carver discarded the shotgun in a ditch between the two residences.

The Echo apologizes for any inconvenience caused by any inaccuracies in the report. Carver is scheduled to appear in court on several charges beginning from the morning of Monday, June 7, at the Hancock County Courthouse, Court Judge Lee Klein.

Power company encouraging customers to read meters

Mississippi Power Company is encouraging customers to read their electric meters this summer as temperatures rise and increased air conditioner use causes higher electric bills.

Perry Gibson, Mississippi Power Company local manager in Bay St. Louis, stressed that most Mississippi Power Company customers use two to three times as much electricity in the summer months and that by reading their electric meter regularly, misunderstandings concerning higher bills can be avoided.

"High electric bills during the summer months are due mostly to the dramatic increase in kilowatt-hour usage, not to the recent increase in retail rates which will increase electric bills by about 4 to 7 percent," Gibson said.

Also, customers are more likely to initiate energy conservation measures when they keep an accurate record of the amount of electricity they use, he said.

Gibson explained that the dials on an electric meter are read from right to left. When a customer reads his meter he should copy the number the hand has just passed—the lower of the two numbers the hand is between. If the dial is between 9 and 0, read the 9.

On the same date next month repeat the reading. Subtract the first reading from the second reading, and the answer is the number of kilowatt hours used in one month.

"Normally customers' electric meters are read each month unless they are inaccessible due to locked gates, unrestrained dogs or inclement weather. When a meter cannot be read, an estimate is made by computer and this is noted on the electric bill. Any difference between the estimate and the customers' use is adjusted automatically on the next billing, provided actual readings are obtained," he said.

Mississippi Power Company, a member of the Southern electric system, provides electricity to more than 181,000 customers in 23 counties in southeast Mississippi.

DUST BOWL BLUES

WTBS will present New Dust Bowl Blues, a one-hour TBS documentary about the serious problems of soil erosion and the loss of American farmland to non-agricultural uses on Sunday, May 30 at 6:05 p.m.

Actor Eddie Albert, a longtime conservationist, hosts the documentary and comments on the developments which have led to the current U.S. erosion crisis.

He is joined by a number of agriculture experts from government and private organizations, including Secretary of Agriculture John Block and representatives of the National Association of Conservation Districts, the Soil Conservation Service and other groups.

The experts point out that 6.5 billion tons of soil are vanishing from American farms every year as a result of erosion, and that we are losing about three million acres of cropland a year to non-farm uses, such as urbanization.

Despite these alarming statistics, damage to the land is not as obvious as it was during the Dust Bowl years of the 1930's, when tons of soil were swept from the over-farmed Great Plains to eastern states and out to sea. Because the dust storms were so dramatic and visible, they are used as a metaphor for current erosion problems in the program.

EDITORIAL

Be sure to vote Tuesday

Tuesday is a very important election day for all residents of Hancock County, especially District Three electors.

A total of ten candidates are vying for the seat of Justice Court Judge in District Three. All indications are it will be a close race with so many candidates only a few votes will separate third through 10th place. A run-off is for sure in this race.

Electors in District Three will vote for the Justice Court Judge race in addition to having a choice of voting in the Democratic or first Republican primary elections.

The all important seat of United States Senator as well as Circuit Court Judge for Place One have both Democrats and Republicans seeking nomination.

The Chancery Court Judges William L. Stewart, Jason H. Floyd Jr., and J.S. (Johnny) Morris are unopposed.

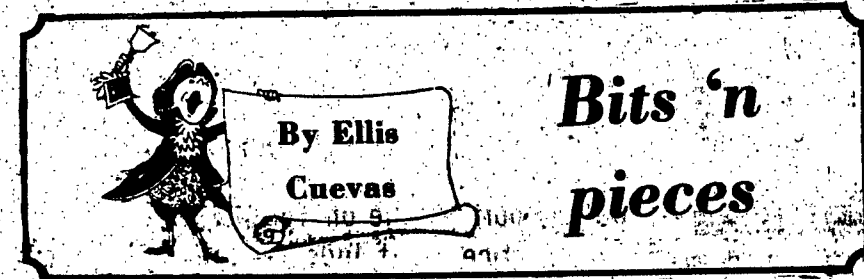

Circuit Court Judge J. Ruble Griffin and Kosta N. Vlahos are also unopposed.

There is only a total of 100 United States senators, so we do not have to elaborate on the importance of the position and the necessity of voting, it should be self explaining.

One never knows when they will be appearing before a Circuit Court Judge as they handle such things as law suits, auto accidents and all criminal cases, so this for sure is an important position.

We would like for you to go to be polls Tuesday, June 1, and vote for the candidates of your choice. Call your neighbors and remind them of the election, offer to take them to the polls if they need transportation.

Every vote does count, we can recall several local elections where one vote made the difference between a candidate being elected and another defeated.

Bits 'n pieces

We have had several comments about the recently renovated railroad crossings in the area, and they all have been favorable.

The marking of the approaches with the large white letters is something we have seen in other communities but never here and we feel it is a tremendous improvement.

The crossings themselves are also smoother than they were in previous years.

It is good to have the upgrading of the railroad crossings, but we as motorists should always be extremely careful in going over the tracks.

We hope there will be a large group who will attend the public hearing Tuesday night in the Waveland Civic Center on Coleman Avenue for a discussion of a new animal shelter.

The proposed site is behind Fire House No. 2 on Gulfside Street in Waveland and will be sound proof and sanitary, according to reports we have received.

We hope all interested parties will attend this public hearing Tuesday, June 1 at 6:30 p.m. in The Waveland Civic Center.

As everyone knows, there is a tremendous need for an animal shelter in our area.

Many will have a holiday Monday in celebration of Memorial Day, (we are not so lucky), and some will be celebrating possibly a little too much.

We want all to have a good time, but express a concern when it comes to safety. If you have had too much to drink, please let some sober person drive.

As we have mentioned before, all police would rather drive a person home because they are drunk than have to investigate an accident, especially when there is a loss of life.

You would be surprised at the amount of paper work involved when there is a fatality, of course this is nothing compared to the grief caused by fatalities.

We want all to have a good time, yet a safe holiday as we still have July 4, Labor Day and on and on to celebrate.

Special Memorial Day Services will be held in both Bay St. Louis and Waveland on Monday honoring those who gave their lives for our nation.

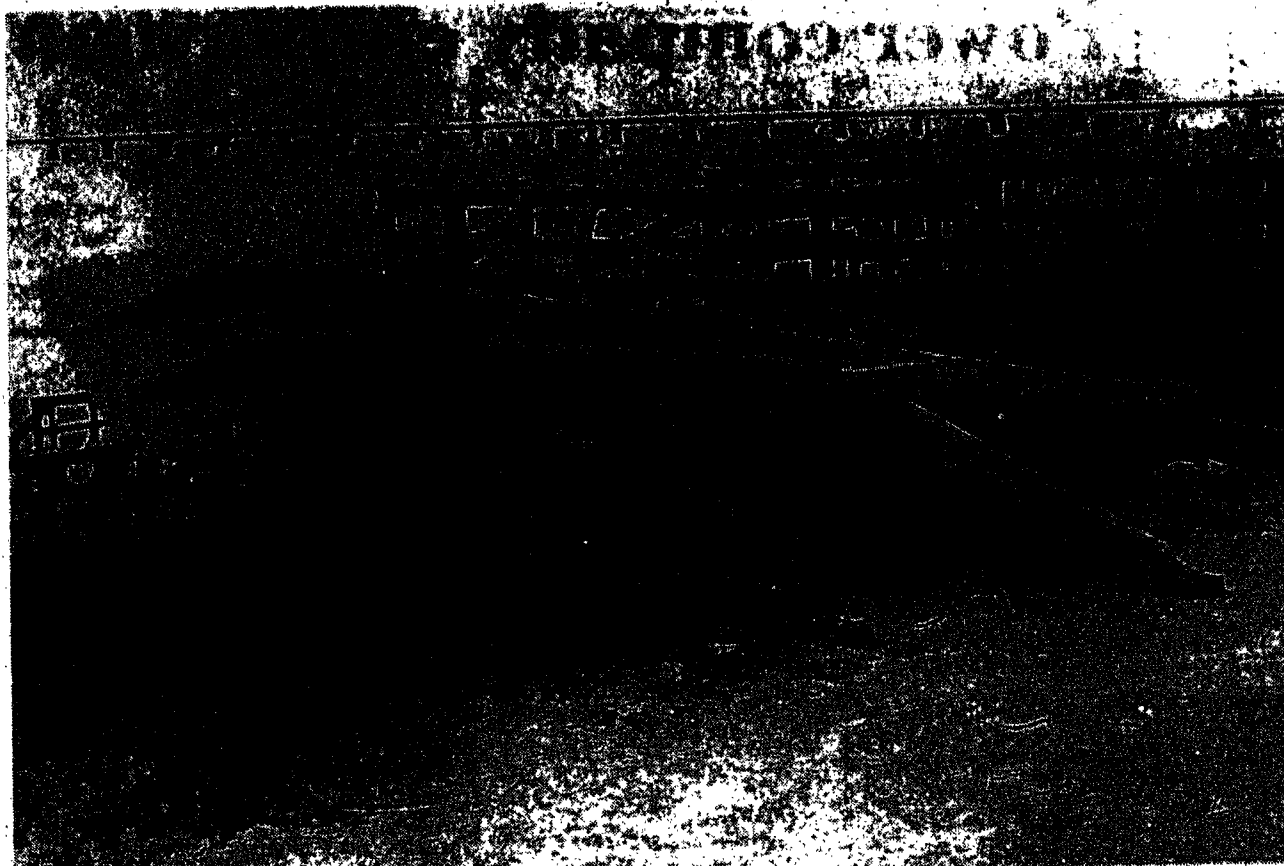

In Bay St. Louis at the grave site of Clement R. Bon Temps in St. Mary's Cemetery, Necaise Avenue, services will be at 10 a.m., sponsored by American Legion Post No. 139.

In Waveland a service honoring the dead will begin at 11 a.m. at the American Legion Home on Coleman Avenue.

We hope folks will try to attend both of these services as all members of veterans organizations, auxiliaries, Boy and Girl Scouts and the general public are invited.

Congratulations are in order for Billy and Yvonne Sills on the birth of their son Friday evening at Gulfport Memorial Hospital.

We received a telephone call telling us that father, mother, and son are all doing well.

NEEDS REPAIR—A barricade at the intersection of North Beach Boulevard and Ulman Avenue in Bay St. Louis, above, was knocked down several weeks ago and has not been repaired. The structure should be repaired before someone drives off into the bay. Another Bay barricade at the intersection of the boulevard and deMontluzin Street, below, has been 'repaired,' but does not seem to be substantially anchored. In addition, both of these structures are eyesores in their present condition and should be properly repaired to enhance the beauty of the town's unique beachfront area.

Washington report

By CONGRESSMAN TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

THE UNDERGROUND ECONOMY

Estimates vary on its size, but available evidence points to an extensive "underground economy" in America today.

The underground economy may involve such activities as illegal drug sales or clandestine immigrant labor, as well as more innocent activities such as garage sales or lawnmowing. The problem comes because the transactions are mostly cash-only and, because they are difficult to trace, billions of dollars are being diverted from the treasury.

It's important to realize that underground activities may be legal or illegal, depending on their nature. Some estimates, however, place the impact of these activities at $11 billion, meaning that nationally a great deal more may be due in taxes than is being collected.

Recognizing the impact of this underground economy on the federal budget through lost revenue, two senators have written legislation to control the practice. The legislation is progressing through Senate consideration and I hope similar consideration will come soon in the House.

Beyond the direct budgetary implications, underground transactions may have a more profound impact on statistics which policymakers and forecasters use when they report on the nation's economic health.

I am very concerned about this. Underground transactions are not recorded in official statistics on the U.S. economy, and my concern is that the figures we read and hear about—upon which national policy is made—may be incomplete.

Traditionally, no attempt has been made to include criminal activities such as drug and gambling in official economic statistics. But because the underground economy seems to be growing, it may be more difficult to ignore in the future.

Product and personal income would not be the only data affected by underground activity. Other important indicators of the nation's economic well-being such as the unemployment rate would be affected as well.

There is a possibility that the labor force data tabulated by the Bureau of Labor Statistics overstates the amount of joblessness in the U.S. and understates the amount of employment. Data on the labor force is obtained from a monthly survey of households.

In responding to inquiries from government representatives, participants in the survey would be unlikely to acknowledge their work activity in unreported areas.

Because of the underground economy, data purporting to show the state of the economy may actually provide a misleading picture of existing conditions. What we need to do is channel the energy and initiative evident in the underground economy into legitimate enterprises.

SOCIAL SECURITY 'COLA'

DUE ON TIME AND IN FULL
The cost of living increases in benefits for social security recipients will be paid in full and on schedule beginning in July, according to Congressman Trent Lott of Miss.

Lott, the House Republican Whip, said the 7.4 percent cost of living adjustment (COLA) will be paid and that Congress is awaiting recommendations from a special bipartisan commission on how best to fund social security in the future.

"The present law requires that checks are being paid and the 7.4 percent increase will be distributed as scheduled," Lott said. "The COLA comes on the heels of a special bipartisan commission on how best to fund social security in the future."

The target savings could be reached in a variety of ways, including adjustments in payroll taxes, new financing sources and restraint on future benefit increases.

"It's important to remember that we can put the system on sound footing without any reduction in current benefit levels," Lott said.

The social security retirement fund has been running an annual deficit since 1975 and the accumulated deficit now has reached $15 billion. The deficit has steadily drained reserves in the fund balance from $37 billion in 1975 to an estimated $7 billion by the end of September, 1983.

Congress approved temporary inter-fund borrowing from the disability and hospital insurance funds to permit payments to retirees to continue. The borrowing provision expires in June, 1983, and, by that time, all three funds will be dangerously low.

"A simple extension of the borrowing authority will not assure long-term solvency in the social security system," Lott said.

June is Hospitality Month in Mississippi, and the Mississippi Division of Tourism urges everyone to support local tourism efforts. Tourism is the state's third largest industry, an industry that provides an annual payroll of over $1 billion for Mississippians. So during the month of June, let's all join together from out of state and remember that "Some of our Best Friends are Tourists."

Federal retirees eye budget cutting effects

Members of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees eyed the final impact of federal budget cuts on programs affecting retirees at a recent association state convention in Jackson.

George E. Anman of Washington, D.C., the association's field operations director, said, "Of particular interest to federal retirees is the final budget impact on the entitlement programs, including civil service and military retirement and social security."

Anman noted a key issue still to be resolved in Congress is the method and frequency of cost-of-living adjustments (COLAS) in the entitlement programs.

Association field vice president Herbert K. Jones urged all Mississippi federal retirees to contact their legislators in Congress regarding proposed budget cuts affecting them.

State officers elected for 1982 are Walter C. Nelms, Clinton, president; Charles G. Clifford, Forest, first vice president; George B. Craft, Starkville, second vice president; Mrs. Christine Carter, Jackson, secretary; Fred B. Gilliland, Columbus, treasurer; Elbert F. Ward Jr., Jackson, chaplain; and Rosamond S. McCrory, Macon, sergeant-at-arms.

District representatives are Mrs. Kathleen Jennings, Tutwiler; Lanette G. Long, Starkville; Bob H. Mayo, Forest; and George C. Brown, Brookhaven.

Delegates to the convention, May 23-25 from Hancock's Buccaneer chapter No. 1729 include Fred H. Logan, Gordon E. Stone, Daniel J. Sentilles and Anna Marie Devine.

Alternate delegates include Ruth H. Logan, H. Norman Devine and Vera B. Sentilles.

SHUT DOWN—An apparent illegal oil mud waste dumping area on Bayou LaCroix Road underneath high voltage electrical lines ceased operation recently when the State Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Pollution Control began requiring permits for these operations. However, bureau officials said probably no action will be taken against the operator since there are numerous illegal dumps of this type statewide. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Oil mud

"This drilling mud consists of clay materials that seal themselves in a holding area," Barrett stated.

He noted a permit has been issued for only one of three pits at the Zengarling site because one pit has overflowed pollutants twice into nearby streams which flow into Bayou LaCroix.

He reported the northernmost Zengarling pit has been covered with soil, the company must cover one other pit and plant a lawn over both areas within two years.

One remaining Zengarling pit on the east side of the site apparently meets state requirements and may continue to be utilized, Barrett said.

"That pit has a good dike structure," the section head stated.

"We told Johnson that if the fluid level of the remaining pit ever approaches the top of the dikes he will have to get a caravan of tank trucks to move the material to the Firetower pit," he explained.

As an alternative, he could chemically treat the water, test it and if it meets certain criteria the water can be discharged from the site," Barrett further explained.

He noted material in the Firetower pit is adequately contained due to its depth and can not overflow.

"Our main concern is that these pits do not overflow or leech into the ground," Barrett added.

Regarding the proposed Napoleon site, the section head reported the company will line the pit with a plastic membrane to avoid seepage.

"He (Johnson) wants to get into business in a bigger way... He is pursuing preparations to take wastes at this new site also," Barrett stated.

In reference to drilling mud imported here from Louisiana, Harper stated, "We don't have any control on the origin of this mud. As long as the material is consistent with reports of what is supposed to be dumped there, it doesn't make any difference where it comes from."

Barrett reported, "The worst thing about these mud pits is that they look like a mess. We receive numerous complaints of this nature."

"But these pits will cause a serious pollution problem when they overflow," he warned.

Regarding a non-permitted oil mud waste pit apparently operated by W.S. Red Hancock Oil Field Service and located just north of the Zengarling pit on Bayou LaCroix Road, Harper said the company ceased operations when the oil and gas board revoked the Mississippi Pumping permits.

When asked what action would be taken against the Red Hancock operation due to a lack of any permits, Barrett stated, "We are undecided as to what to do. We probably won't do anything because there are hundreds of these illegal pits in the state."

"Red Hancock has abandoned its pits, but anyone who wants to continue this operation has to get a permit from the bureau," Barrett noted.

In reference to tank truck operators which have been sighted by residents washing out tanks in local streams, Barrett replied, "We'll make sure they wash these trucks out at the pits and not into creeks."

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

About once a month or so, I decide to run an ad for my store. I list a number of special items, but the results are so disappointing that I cancel the ad several weeks before it expires. What's wrong?

Dear Mr. Denley: Thanks for including the answer to my question. They help me to analyze my problem.

One thing is quite obvious—you are trying to put too much in your ads. And it's not a matter of size, even though your ads are relatively modest in size.

The problem is the lack of a central featured item or group of items.

Ads that attempt to list everything in the store are OK on an occasional basis. But they don't get much immediate response.

To get results you need to feature a single group of items, play up the strong benefits of the items, and give customers a reason to buy the items now.

The act now motivation may be a limited time offering, a special bonus, or some other immediate benefit.

Other items may be mentioned in the ad, but the more you have the less the overall impact will be.

If you are listing prices that are sufficiently attractive to be featured, then more items can and should be listed (as grocery stores, for example, do every week).

But in your case your price offerings will be limited to seasonal clearance and such.

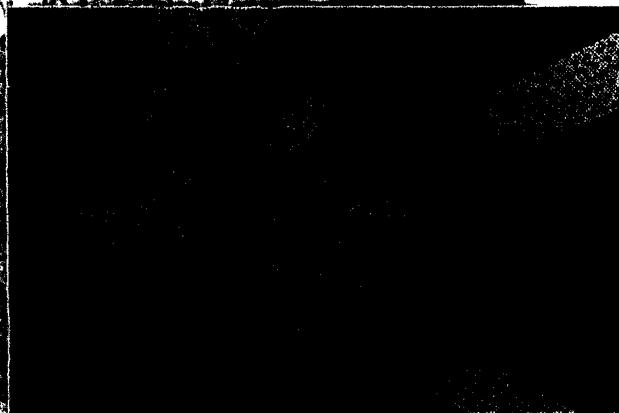

Your store isn't going to benefit too much, week-to-week, by increased traffic if the motivation is to pick up a real bargain.

Your clientele is of a discriminating nature, looking for quality in gift merchandise, rather than price bargains.

Build your image along these lines by offering good merchandise at reasonable prices and leave the "fire-sale" approach to others.

"Good Judges Make Good Government"

HURLBERT
For Circuit Judge

"The Circuit Judge's job is to see that the people of the State of Mississippi, plaintiffs, defendants, and victims, all get a fair trial."

The jury must rely upon the Circuit Judge to instruct them as to each point of the law in reaching a verdict. Any mistakes made by an inexperienced judge as to the law may result in appeals, and increased cost to the taxpayers and litigants if a new trial is necessary.

The Judge's duty to pronounce sentence comes only after a guilty verdict. Whether or not that verdict and sentence will stand up on an appeal depends largely on the ability of the Trial Judge to see that the trial has been conducted according to law.

Therefore, a Circuit Judge must have a full knowledge of the law concerning all types of cases, both criminal and civil: Someone like Clyde Hurlbert!

Clyde Hurlbert has tried cases of every type, criminal and civil, in all of the State, County and Federal Courts for 22 years, seven and a half years of which he served as State Prosecutor. That experience speaks for itself!

If you want a Judge who thinks and speaks for himself—
If you want a Judge who is flesh and blood and real —
If you want a Judge with no strings attached —
If you want a Judge who is truly qualified —

CROCKETT LINDSEY

JUDGE CIRCUIT COURT

THIS IS WHY CROCKETT LINDSEY SHOULD BE ELECTED:

A dedicated and innovative judge, Crockett Lindsey established the state's first Misdemeanor Probation Office; he instituted work programs for city prisoners and juvenile traffic offenders; he developed the first Citizen's Dispute Settlement Program in Southern Mississippi; and he implemented the area's first Misdemeanor Victim Restitution Program. His plan was so unique and effective that cities throughout Mississippi soon modeled programs of their own after it.

Crockett began his legal training at Ole Miss, where he received a Bachelor's Degree in Political Science. While in college, he married the former Sue Hughes and today is the father of two children, a son, Wade and daughter, Courtney. He received his Law Degree from Ole Miss, was admitted to the bar, and with confidence in his own ability began a private practice which has grown in stature and service.

He is a charter member of the Mississippi Municipal Judges' Conference, an organization dedicated to the improvement of the state judicial system. He served as the Conference's President and Vice President and was a member of its Board of Directors and Legislative Committee.

While President of the Municipal Judges' Conference, Crockett drafted legislation which led to the improvement and modernization of the state judicial system. His leadership also led to the adoption of uniform rules of procedure and uniform fines and penalties by Mississippi municipal courts which would allow city courts to make and judge.

True to his dedication to the judiciary, Crockett attended advanced courses of study sponsored by the American Bar Association, the Mississippi Judicial College and the National Judicial College. He is a former Special Master (appointed Judge) to the Hancock County Chancery Court and a member of the Hancock County Bar Association, the Mississippi State Bar Association and the Mississippi Trial Lawyers Association.

As a Municipal Court Judge, Crockett Lindsey cared to change a system and was successful in doing so. His approach brought order and justice to the courts. He devised programs for prisoner reforms, and compensated victims for their losses.

There's more to being a judge than reaching a verdict. Crockett Lindsey has proved

Computer developments promise tight control of power usage

Southern Company President Alvin W. Vogtle Jr. said Tuesday that "...even in this period of recession, demand for electricity is still growing."

And he pledged that the Southern electric system will do everything possible to complete the power plants it now has under construction.

Addressing the company's 36th annual stockholders' meeting, Vogtle projected that requirements for electricity across the Southeast will continue to increase at an average rate just above three percent a year through the 1990s.

He told the stockholders that finishing the power plants now under construction will require The Southern Company and its operating units to invest some $5.9 billion over the next 10 years.

"But when these facilities are completed, they'll be ready to serve the energy needs of the region well into the next century. And I believe the day will come when we'll look at these generating units—built at the costs prevailing today—and call them one of the greatest bargains the South has ever seen."

The Atlanta-based Southern Company is the parent firm of four electric utilities in the Southeast: Alabama Power, Georgia Power, Gulf Power, and Mississippi Power. This year's meeting of stockholders was held at the Birmingham-Jefferson Civic Center in Birmingham, Ala.

Terming the construction program now in progress "more manageable today than at any time since 1973," Vogtle noted that six million kilowatts of generating capacity currently are being built. This compares with 23 million kilowatts of capacity which were under construction in 1973—before the "Arab oil embargo totally reshaped the nation's energy picture."

Vogtle said the company has reviewed carefully its plans for the capacity that remains under construction. "We considered the state to which work on these projects has progressed. We considered the additional revenues from our growing sales of power plant capacity and energy to neighboring utilities. And we considered the energy needs of a growing region."

"In light of all these factors," he said, "we concluded that the most rational strategy is to finish the generating units we're building now."

He stressed, however, the company's frequently stated policy of not initiating any new power plant construction "unless we have reasonable assurance of earning an adequate return on the investment that would be required."

Continuing his report, Vogtle said that the most exciting and innovative years of the electric utility industry lie ahead. He pointed to the advanced technologies now being assessed by the Southern electric system and industry research groups. "Cool storage, photovoltaics, and exotic battery systems for electric vehicles may sound like science fiction today, but among them could well lie the realities of tomorrow."

Vogtle described a new computer device—which may be available by the 1990s—that will tell customers the price of each unit of electricity at the moment it is used. Important because the cost of producing and delivering a unit of electricity can vary greatly, this in-home computer could provide customers with the information to make their own choices—timing usage to suit personal needs and desires. "We might see a time," he predicted, "when—in a sense—customers write their own electric bills day by day, according to their individual decisions on energy use."

"As we evaluate these and other innovative concepts," Vogtle added, "we look to the future from a new point of view—the point of view that our product is not really electricity; our product is, rather, the satisfaction of the energy-using customer."

Vogtle also reported that the company's financial performance improved during the early months of 1982. He announced that net income for the four months ending April 30 totaled $128 million—an increase of $36 million over the first four months of 1981. These latest earnings are equivalent to 65 cents a share. For the comparable four months a year ago, earnings were 53 cents a share.

"But, to keep today's financial picture in perspective," Vogtle said, "we must note that our earnings per share still are running below the levels established in 1975—largely because our costs have felt the significant impact of inflation during that seven-year period. And our rates simply have not kept pace."

During the business portion of the meeting, stockholders elected a slate of 18 candidates to the company's board of directors, ratified the appointment of Arthur Anderson & Co. as independent auditors for the year 1982, and approved an amendment to the company's charter increasing to 300 million the number of shares of common stock which the company is authorized to issue. Stockholders also approved an amendment to the charter which eliminates limited preemptive rights for stockholders.

Seven stockholder proposals were defeated at the meeting. A resolution was rejected which requested that Georgia Power withdraw from the construction of the Vogtle Electric Generating Plant and initiate negotiations with the co-owners of the facility to minimize losses as a result of the withdrawal.

In a proxy statement sent to stockholders, The Southern Company said that canceling construction of Plant Vogtle would waste more than $1.3 billion already invested in the facility by Georgia Power and the co-owners of the plant; result in some $400 million in cancellation fees and penalties; and risk billions of dollars of liability to the co-owners of the plant and their lenders. The proxy statement further pointed out that the company and its stockholders would risk absorbing most, if not all, of these costs.

Also defeated was a proposal which requested management not to permit the use of the company's nuclear properties or spent fuel for the production of nuclear weapons by the United States or any foreign power.

The company, in its proxy statement, said the issue of whether and how to store or reuse spent nuclear fuel is an issue of national policy that is being addressed by the federal government. The proxy statement also said that the company must retain the flexibility to adopt one or more of the legal disposal methods eventually approved by government authorities.

A proposal also was rejected which requested management to prohibit the sale of services and technology to electric utilities and agencies in South Africa. In addition, a proposal was defeated that called for establishment of a policy which would have prohibited coal purchases from the Republic of South Africa.

Stockholders also turned down a resolution calling for quarterly disclosure of information regarding employee involvement in government, civic, charitable, political, educational, or other business organizations; suspensions of new plant construction; and the restoration of preemptive rights to stockholders.

In addition to Alvin W.

Vogtle Jr., directors elected to include Alan R. Barton, Company, Gulfport, and A. F. Boat and Barge Company, Pascagoula.

THE LEWIS GRIZZARD COLUMN

It never ceases to amaze me how many different record and tape collections are available for telephone order on television.

Organ renditions of your favorite all-time hits, for instance. They want me to listen to someone playing "Thunder Road" on an organ? ("Thunder was his engine and white lightning" was his load. "Thunder Road" is one of my favorite hits, but I don't think you can even play that on the organ. Besides, whenever I hear organ music, it makes me feel like I'm in church or between innings at the ballpark. Give me "Bringing in the Sheaves" or "The Star Spangled Banner" if you're going to play the organ.

There's a collection of all your favorite hits being played on an accordion, too. Accordions are terrific if you want to polka with your money. Otherwise, I can't handle accordion music.

There are collections of great love themes. "Theme from Romeo and Juliet" and some moving thing by Rachmaninoff. I'd love to slip "Herpes in G-Minor" onto the list and see if anybody was paying attention.

The best way to get a collection of your records and tapes advertised on television, it seems, is to die. Jim Croce. Jim Reeves. Beethoven. Or to be raised from the dead. Slim Whitman.

Old saxophone players never die. They just sell collections of records and tapes on television. Remember Ace Cannon? Of course you don't, but you can order a record or tape collection in which he blows the stuffings out of his saxophone. I don't think you can play "Thunder Road" on a saxophone, either, although Ace Cannon apparently is hard up enough to try.

Jim Nabors is always peddling his songs on television. Why doesn't he go back to boot camp and leave the rest of us alone? There are a number of things I don't understand about record and tape collections being hawked on television.

One, who sits around and dreams up what collections are going to be offered? There is probably no end to this. In the coming months, we could see your all-time favorite hits as hummed by Frank Sinatra Jr.

We could have "The Best from Niles Wiggins," who was a guy from my hometown who did animal sounds. Did the dandiest duck and donkey you ever heard. If Skitch Henderson can push a collection, so can Niles Wiggins.

Two, why are none of these collections ever available in stores? They always say that: "You can't buy these records or tapes in stores." Stores don't want them cluttering up their shelves? Or are the people who are pushing these records and tapes afraid to show them off in public? Would they be a health hazard?

Three, why can't you ever order any of these collections in Nebraska? The last five commercials I have seen where you order music, they flash an 800 number on the screen with the notation: "Except in Nebraska."

There's something wrong with Nebraska? I've been to Nebraska. It's a little flat. I admit, but the people there seemed OK to me. If somebody in North Platte, Neb., wants to buy an album or a tape of Niles Wiggins quacking like a duck, I don't see why they shouldn't be allowed to do so.

YOU AND YOUR PET

Something for Youth: THIS PET-FAVORITE OF HUCKLEBERRY FINN?

Turn-of-the-century humorist and author Mark Twain made famous one of the most interesting and fun-to-watch pets available to Mississippi youngsters today. Huckleberry Finn was rarely without one, and this character of the animal kingdom in a Twain short story, played out one of the most humorous cases of trickery ever recorded.

The pet in question is a frog. And Kenneth Cook, a 4-H Youth Development Specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, says this creature lives up to the literary fame it has mustered over the years. Cook has written a publication on exotic pets for youngsters in Mississippi.

"A person looking for a pet with a big voice can't go wrong with a frog," Cook says. "Frogs come in a variety of colors and some can change color. We find them almost everywhere from north to south."

"Frogs have a head and body but no neck. The skin is usually smooth and moist," Cook says. "The legs of frogs are much longer than their arms, and that disproportionate body arrangement has made them a great restaurant delicacy. Huckleberry Finn may have discovered that fact long before the restaurants."

"A frog can't walk but has to leap," Cook says. "A bullfrog holds the record for the longest leap of more than five feet per jump for three jumps."

Twain recognized this great athletic prowess and made the bullfrog one of the central characters in his story in "The Jumping Frog of Calaveras County."

Cook says frogs lead double lives because they are amphibians.

"Their life starts in a pond or stream as tadpoles or polliwogs and the look nothing like their parents," Cook says. "As they grow older, many species move out of the water onto land. When they do this, they become air breathers and lungs replace their gills."

Cook says youngsters who want a frog as a pet can choose from a tree frog, green frog, yellow-legged frog or the bullfrog, the main choice.

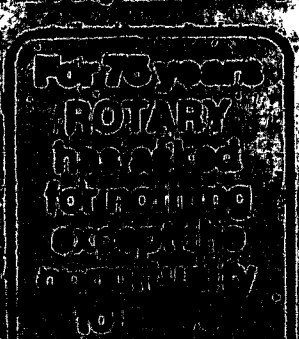

His tips on care and feeding for frogs include:

• Shelter and equipment. Cook suggests a large, covered aquarium or a cage with a solid bottom, glass front and small mesh wire sides. He says size will need to be 24 inches long, 18 inches wide and 18 inches high. A cake pan for rocks and water is all that is needed inside.

• Feeding. Cook says frogs do not need to be trained, and feeding should be handled by their owners too much.

• Feeding. "Feed only the amount you can eat in 10 minutes," Cook says. "If you feed them too much, they will get fat and stop eating."

• Hygiene. Cook says that frogs should be kept in a clean, well-ventilated cage. He says that frogs should be kept in a cage for at least 24 hours before being released into the wild.

NSTL is Mississippi link to nation's space program

By LISA MONTI
NSTL Public Affairs

The residents and resources of the State of Mississippi have contributed significantly to the success of America's space program—from the Apollo lunar landings of the 1960s and 1970s to the Space Shuttle, the nation's Space Transportation System for the decade of the 1980s and beyond.

Mississippi's link to the space program is NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories (NSTL), located on 13,480 acres in Hancock County near Bay St. Louis.

One of NSTL's primary missions is the development and flight certification of the powerful main engines which boost the shuttle into orbit.

The three main engines on the Columbia, which performed flawlessly on the shuttle's first three test flights, were certified and acceptance tested at NSTL. Those same engines will be used on Columbia's fourth and final test flight in late June and also on subsequent missions.

Today, technicians and engineers at NSTL are preparing to flight certify the three main engines for the Challenger, the second orbiter, which is now scheduled for flight in January 1983.

Testing of the shuttle main engines is conducted on the same huge test towers used from 1965 to 1970 to captive-fire all of the first and second stages of the Saturn V rocket used in the Apollo manned lunar landing and Skylab programs.

Shuttle main engine testing has been under way since 1975 and, to date, more than 640 firings totaling over 105,000 seconds have been successfully conducted at NSTL.

In the early 1970s, at the conclusion of the Apollo test program, NSTL began taking on new roles in addition to the shuttle engine testing which give the Center's programs national and international significance.

For example, NSTL's Earth Resources Laboratory has the responsibility for developing, testing and evaluating applications of satellite technology to resources planning and management programs conducted by federal, state and local government agencies and private industry.

With NASA serving as the host agency, 17 other federal and state agencies are located at NSTL, sharing the laboratories and other facilities at this unique multi-agency scientific community. The work of NSTL's resident agencies covers the spectrum from space to the oceans to the earth with activities aimed at oceanography, remote sensing and environmental projects.

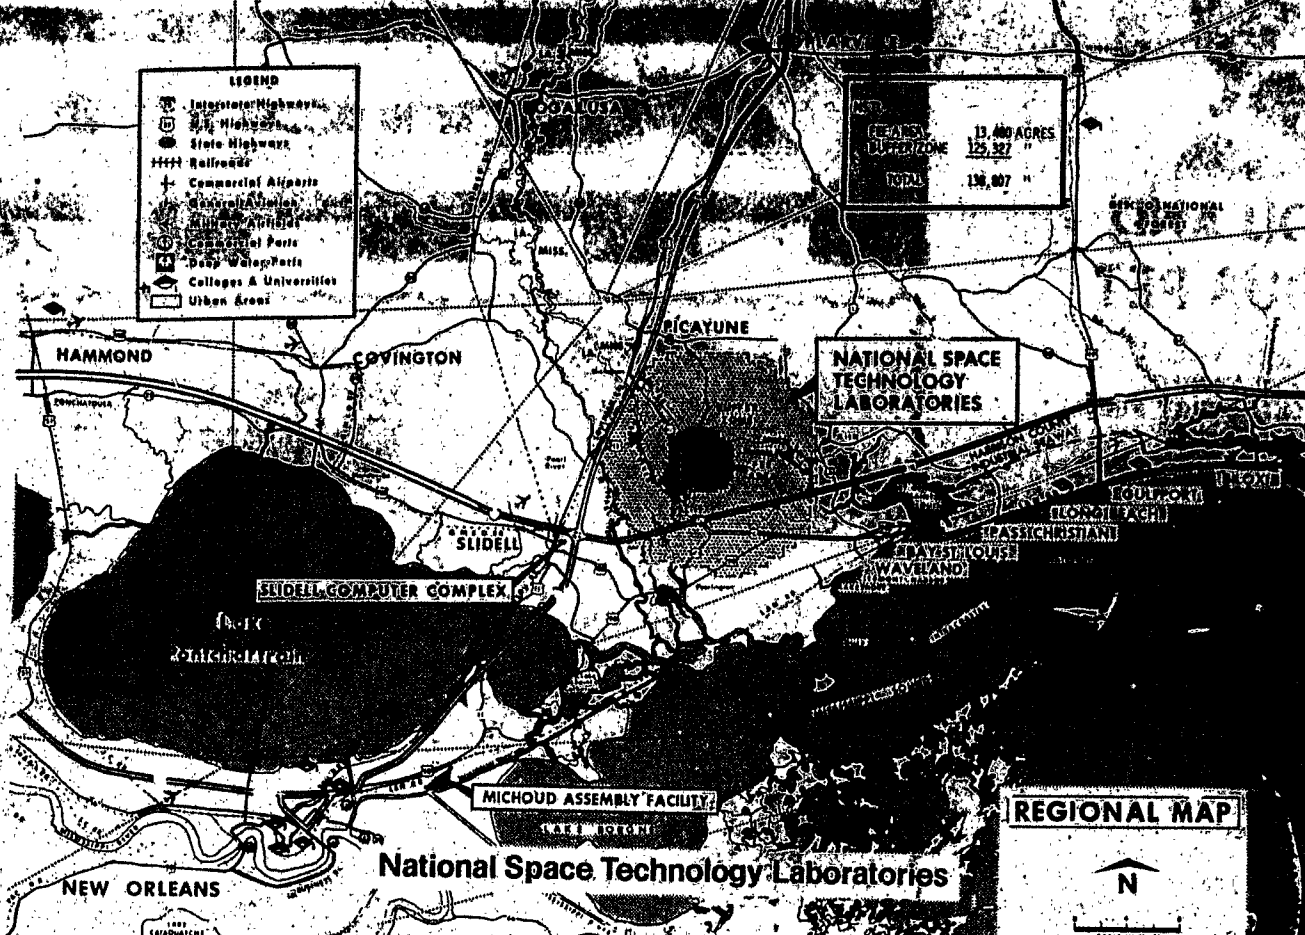

NSTL's resident agencies represent four Cabinet-level Departments—Defense, Commerce, Interior and Transportation—as well as the Environmental Protection Agency, the State of Louisiana, Mississippi State University and the University of Southern Mississippi.

NSTL's reputation as a scientific center of excellence is widespread, as evidenced by the growing number of visitors to the Mississippi Installation each year. Last year NSTL hosted some 60,000 visitors from all 50 states and 72 foreign countries. Already this year, more than 36,000 visitors have registered at NSTL's Visitors Center and indications are that this will be another record year for visitors.

NSTL offers visitors a unique opportunity to learn about the wide-ranging activities of NASA and its resident agencies at the newly enhanced Visitors Center. At the Center, visitors can view indoor and outdoor exhibits and displays, movies and live presentations throughout the day. In addition, visitors can enjoy guided tours of the Center's facilities and laboratories, including the Space Shuttle Test Complex.

NSTL's Visitors Center is open each Monday Through Friday, excluding holidays, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Special arrangements can be made to accommodate groups. There is no admission charge and cameras are allowed. The Center is easily accessible from Interstates 10 and 59.

For more information about NSTL's tour program, write to the NSTL Public Affairs Office, NSTL Station, MS 39529, or call (601) 688-2321 or 688-2370.

A SECOND LOOK AT HILL STREET BLUES

When it first burst onto the network scene, 'Hill Street Blues' was a fresh, intelligent respite from the usual array of mindless comedy sitcoms and drab dramas that seem to choke commercial television these days.

'Blues,' with its multiple soundtrack, roving camera and rich characterizations, took the critics and viewing audience by storm. Beginning with a humble following 'Blues' has increased its audience this year, even breaking into the Top 20 after a banner experience at last year's Emmy Awards.

In fact, NBC has been so impressed by the recovery and improvement of the show that they ordered 24 new episodes for next year.

The key to the show's success is its genuine feeling for its characters.

Never before has a television show taken its characters through so much. It wasn't until after everyone had left the Bunker household before Archie began facing the everyday realities instead of constantly espousing his bigoted philosophy, and Hawkeye continues to rant about the waste of war and what it's like to be a doctor in a sausage mill.

Even 'Blues' predecessor 'Police Story' relied on its action stories and bankable stars to achieve good ratings. But 'Hill Street Blues' simply cares for its characters. A few examples:

Captain Furillo is generally the focal point of each show. That's because his character plays off everyone's worst fears: the most part, Furillo is a concerned, controlled cop who, in some instances, can react like a wounded animal when confronted with some of the bizarre behaviors that inhabit the city.

The Furillo character has undergone a transformation from the Hill Street Blues.

who has seen the same sick scenario one too many times.

Henry Goldblum is almost like a Furillo carbon copy. But Goldblum is filled with more compassion and understanding for the ghetto-dwellers than any of his colleagues.

His screen life has been tough, beginning with a seriously ill child, getting shot in the line of duty and then seeing his marriage fall apart. Still, he comes to the precinct in one piece and somehow manages to bring some sanity into a world inhabited by madmen, and lunatics.

Mick Belker is a hard-nosed gumshoe who loves to call his suspects "dog breath." Belker wears Oliver Twist gloves, a wool hat in the hottest summer months, a five o'clock shadow all the time and eats the worst looking sandwiches since Dagwood quit raiding the icebox.

One time Belker exhaled on LaRue and LaRue said, "Jeez, Belker, what did you have for lunch... sewage?" Still, Belker wins our admiration through his courage and determination. He is the quintessential little guy fighting for what he believes in.

No character has been put through the wringer more than LaRue. LaRue is an alcoholic who has been up and down. He has laid in the gutter, hooked valuable jewels stolen from a girlfriend and was finally busted to the motor pool where he drove a tow truck.

Recently LaRue was given a reprieve by Furillo just moments before he and Joyce Devore were to be married. The marriage was a disaster, and LaRue was left with a broken heart and a broken marriage.

The Furillo character has undergone a transformation from the Hill Street Blues.

The rest of the cast is a pleasure to watch also. From the militant Howard, the chauvinistic SWAT leader, to the father figure Phil who cautions everyone after roll call, "Let's be careful out there."

And as long as 'Hill Street Blues' continues to give us intelligent stories based on human characters that we can believe in, it should enjoy a productive run on television. After all, no other show on network television comes close to matching the integrity and production values of NBC's 'Hill Street Blues.'

St. Paul parishioners salute pastor's jubilee

Parishioners of St. Paul Catholic Church in Pass Christian observed the Silver Jubilee of their pastor, Monsignor James McGough, vicar-general of the Diocese of Biloxi, with three days of celebration.

Opening the series of events was a concelebrated Mass of Thanksgiving in St. Paul Church on Sunday, May 23 before a standing-room-only attendance.

The monsignor's brother, Father William McGough of Mandeville, La. was among the concelebrants, as were Father Francis Farrell, dean; Father James Russell, homilist for the Mass; and Father John Scanlon of St. Paul.

The parish choir and the CYO choir led music for the occasion, assisted by organists, guitarists, flutist and trumpeter. Altar boys carried cross and candles, American and Papal flags, the Sacred Books, and incense in the procession.

Ushers greeted worshippers and presented each with a silver jubilee Mass program and a memento of McGough's 25th anniversary as a priest. Altar Society members had specially prepared sanctuary and church, presenting a new altar frontal and pulpit cover with the jubilee design to match the vestments hand-made for the monsignor for this Mass.

Parishioners assisted as commentator, lector and extraordinary ministers of the Eucharist.

Parish Council officers and their spouses carried the offertory gifts, with children of St. Paul School presenting a new chalice and paten as an anniversary remembrance.

Pope John Paul II sent a special Apostolic Blessing which was read after the Communion meditation.

Knights of Columbus received over 500 guests at the parish auditorium for a seated dinner following the Mass. Carnival Association and Seaford Festival members had prepared the meal which was served by the St. Paul PEO and the CYO at tables decorated by the Altar Society in ivy and magnolia blossoms, interspersed with arrangements of shasta daisies.

A plaque from parishioners and friends was presented to Monsignor McGough after which the mayor of Pass Christian read a proclamation declaring Sunday, May 23 "Monsignor McGough Day" and presented him with an engraved plaque with a key to the city.

Organ music filled the auditorium throughout the dinner and the program concluded with McGough leading community singing of favorite Irish songs. St. Paul students entertained with an original program Monday evening in verse, songs and tableau depicting highlights of McGough's life. On Tuesday morning the parishioners and children joined in a Jubilee Mass with the monsignor, concelebrated with eight priests of the area.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." —John 10:10

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, RAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

Brick by brick, couple after couple are building immovable walls between each other. A nag here, a cut there, blows to self-esteem and endless criticisms are each bricks that are stacked upon one another that eventually produce a wall of frustration, bitterness and hurt that cannot be scaled.

But it doesn't have to be that way. God has outlined several principles in His Word that if followed will help us to remove existing bricks and prevent future walls.

Here are some marriage communication guidelines which every couple should read together out loud and discuss. Choose a convenient time at the beginning or the end of the day. Get your Bibles out and go down the list one by one and remember to be harder on yourself than on your partner.

1) Be a ready listener and do not answer until the other person has finished talking. Proverbs 18:13; James 1:19

2) Be slow to speak. Think first. Don't be hasty in your words. Speak in such a way that the other person can understand and accept what you say. Proverbs 15:23, 28; 21:23; 29:20; James 1:19

3) Speak the truth always but do it in love. Do not exaggerate. Ephesians 4:15, 25; Colossians 3:9

4) Do not use silence to frustrate the other person. Explain why you are hesitant to talk at this time.

5) Do not become involved in quarrels. It is possible to disagree without quarreling. Proverbs 17:14; 20:3; Romans 13:13; Ephesians 4:31

6) Do not respond in anger. Use a soft and kind response. Proverbs 14:29; 15:1; 25:15; 29:11; Ephesians 4:26, 31

7) When you are in the wrong, admit it and ask for forgiveness. James 5:16

When someone confesses to you, tell them you forgive them. Be sure it is forgotten and not brought up again. Proverbs 17:9; Ephesians 4:32; Colossians 3:13; 1 Peter 4:8

8) Avoid nagging. Proverbs 10:19; 17:9; 20:5

9) Do not blame or criticize the other but restore them, encourage them and edify them. Romans 14:13; Galatians 6:1; 1 Thessalonians 5:11

If someone verbally attacks, criticizes or blames you, do not respond in the same manner. Romans 12:17, 21; 1 Peter 2:23; 3:9

10) Try to understand the other person's opinion. Make allowances for differences. Be concerned about their interests. Philippians 2:1-4; Ephesians 4:2

It is of deepest concern to God that your marriage be an effective partnership and a wonderful experience for you both. And believe me, it's worth the extra effort.

The 'abundant life' is a choice that we make when we choose Jesus Christ to be both our Lord and Savior and then let His Word fill our lives with both joy and truth.

WORD OF GOD

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful.

But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night.

And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper.

The ungodly are not so: but are like the chaff which the wind driveth away.

Therefore the ungodly shall not stand in the judgement, nor sinners in the congregation of the righteous.

For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly shall perish.

Psalm 1

Members of the Primary Association and the Young Women's Organization of the branch spent an afternoon recently at Buccaneer State Park in Waveland.

The end-of-school outing consisted of games and fun time on the park's playground equipment, a lunch of hamburgers and hot dogs, and splashing in the surf of the Gulf of Mexico.

Members of the branch and their friends attending the event included Mrs. William (Paullette) Gilthorpe and children Will and Jared; Mrs. Johnny (Lillie) Truianos and children Tammy and Joshua; Betty and Deanna Deaver; Jim, Patty, Jimmy, Leanne, and Angela Baldree; and visiting from the Chalmette area were Laura Givens; and Mr. and Mrs. R. Wigginton.

News of St. Rose de Lima

The second collection today is for the Catholic Communications Campaign. Half of it will be used for our own diocesan TV program. Other half will be used on a national level.

We want to thank the 33 families of our parish who have already paid their annual subscription of $10 for the Mississippi Today. We need your help to meet our monthly payment. The paper does not make any profit. Its subscription rate is remarkably low when compared to other publications and that's because it charges just enough to cover the actual cost of production and mailing.

Pass woman offering first Coastal color consultations

By BRENT MACEY

A Pass Christian woman with a flair for art has started the first color consulting business on the Gulf Coast.

To her, the terms spring, summer, autumn and winter are adjectives, not seasons, describing a person's complexion while supply a key to the type of colors which will enhance and flatter her dress.

Maren Casano, formerly a housewife and now a business woman, recently completed training to become one of 60 Color Me Beautiful consultants in the United States.

She is the first consultant to be based on the Gulf Coast.

Casano explained that 'Color Me Beautiful' is the name of a best selling book written by Carole Jackson.

The book now serves as the handbook on which Casano plays her trade.

According to Casano, 'Color Me Beautiful' contains information on how to use colors to flatter one's natural complexion. The book also explains how to simplify and beautify the wardrobe.

"Color me beautiful is simply a way to make yourself look better by following the natural coloring of your hair, eyes and skin tone," Casano stated.

She said her training involved learning how to distinguish between different complexions and matching each individual complexion with 30 most complementary colors.

"When you learn your best colors then it simplifies your wardrobe and you learn to plan your wardrobe so it blends."

"You don't make mistakes and you can save a lot of money," she added.

Casano said the book explains that there are basically four different types of complexions: winter, summer, spring and fall.

As an example, persons with dark hair and eyes usually have a winter complexion, she said.

"Women with a winter complexion are most beautiful in the clear, true primary colors of winter," she said.

"Women with a summer complexion are flattered by the softer shades of summer for example, while someone with a spring complexion will be enhanced by clear, warm colors," she added.

Casano said she has an autumn complexion. As a result, she said she looks better in rich warm tones of fall.

The trick apparently is learning what type of complexion one has.

In order to learn, Casano is offering color consultations the first week of June at the Princess Dress Shoppe in Bay St. Louis.

Consultations, which last for a week and must be made by appointment, are $50 per person.

Casano noted group consultations are preferred since other members of the class can provide input on what colors are most complimentary.

Some people's complexion can not be classified easily, she said.

To find out exactly which complexion and colors are most complimentary to her clients, Casano holds up different colored materials under their faces during the course.

"It's really amazing," she said.

"With the wrong colors you can see the lines and shadows in a person's face; but with the right color, the shadows disappear and the eyes really sparkle."

"It's exciting."

After determining one's season, appropriate makeup is applied to personalize each individual's 30 most complimentary colors.

Other topics, such as learning how to dress to reflect one's image and hair styles which enhance the face, body and personality are also discussed.

Following completion of the course each client receives a wallet containing samples of her 30 most complimentary colors, Casano said.

"You can take it when you go shopping and match it with the fabrics in the store," she said.

A guide for complimentary eye shadow and make up brands is also included.

Rodeo registration forms available

Registrations are now being accepted for the 34th annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo scheduled July 1-4 with headquarters at Robert L. Rice Pavilion in the Gulfport harbor.

Fishermen competing for an estimated $25,000 in prizes and awards must register to be eligible for prizes.

There is no registration fee.

Official registration blanks have been placed along the Coast at various sporting goods stores, marinas, tackle shops, fishing camps, etc.

Also, official registration blanks will appear in local newspapers as well as in newspapers in Baton Rouge, La., and Jackson in June.

Registration chairman Tom George said registration blanks may also be obtained by writing Mississippi Deep Sea Rodeo, Inc., POB 1229, Gulfport, MS, 39501.

Rodeo headquarters will be located in a trailer adjacent to Rice Pavilion in the Gulfport small craft harbor area.
